Graduation Exercises To Be Held In Amphitheatre June 4th At 11:00 A. M.

Chancellor Grellet C. Simpson Will Extend His Personal Greeting to the Class of 1956 on June 4

Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia will hold Commencement exercises in the amphitheatre (George Washington Auditorium in the event of rain) Monday, June 4, at 11:00 A. M. Dr. Grellet C. Simpson, chancellor, will preside and confer the degrees. The address is to be given by Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College.

Three of the 175 candidates for degrees, representing 19 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico, will graduate with honors: Suzanne Borke of Richmond, formerly of Roanoke, and Gretchen Lewis of Cape Charles, in chemistry, and Margaret White of Norfolk, in French.

THE GRADUATES OF 1956: As your student days at Mary Washington College draw to a close, I can imagine the mixed emotions that you are experiencing. We share the gratification that you must feel upon attaining your goal of graduation from college; at the same time, we, too, are saddened by the inevitable parting of the ways.

We hope that your years here have been happy and fruitful ones. Each of you is a part of Mary Washington College as truly as Mary Washington is a part of you. As graduates of this college you exemplify the ideals and purposes for which this institution exists. I am confident that our future is in safe hands.

As you leave Mary Washington, I wish for you the joy and satisfaction of work well done, courage to face the challenges that may lie ahead, opportunities to live happily and usefully, and an abiding faith in God and your fellow-man.

Student Exhibition

Throughout the year, Mary Washington's Art Club sponsors and obtains outstanding exhibitions which are shown in the galleries of duPont Hall.

The final exhibition of the season is a series of various types of work done by the students of the art department. Under the direction of Mr. Julien Binford, the exhibition includes oil paintings, water colors, pastel sketches, and several types of graphic arts. Also of interest are ceramics and modeling and sculpture in plaster of paris and clay.

This is an exciting and carefully planned exhibition, composed of work done in different mediums of many subjects taken both from life and imagination.

"Bulletin" Awarded Merit

The Associated Collegiate Press in recognition of merit has awarded the Bulletin Third Class Rating in the Fifty-fourth National Newspaper Critical Service of the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota, School of Journalism for 1955-1956. Congratulations to the 1955-56 staff.

Senior Officers Elected For 1956-1957

Newly-elected officers of the incoming senior class are President, Peggy Preston; Vice President, Elaine Richter; Secretary, Cathy Wall; and Treasurer, Betty Ann Rhodes.

Senior Class

The seniors have announced their activities for the last of their days at Mary Washington. On Friday, June 1, a picnic will be given at Westmoreland Beach. Transportation will be furnished by bus and car and fried chicken will be the entree. On Friday night the seniors will hold a spontaneous party in Ball. Everyone is invited. Saturday morning at 8:30 there will be a compulsory rehearsal in the amphitheatre, followed by Class Day at 11 o'clock. That night at nine a formal dance will be held in the Gothic Room. This dance is given by the administration and will feature the music of Elliot Lawrence. The decorations for the dance will be based on a Greek and Roman theme. Breakfast will be served immediately afterwards, followed by one hour of jazz on the terrace. On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Baccalaureate sermon will be given in the amphitheatre. The seniors will have a buffet supper served to them at five that afternoon at Brompton. On Monday morning at 11 o'clock the graduation exercises will take place. Immediately following this, a buffet lunch will be served in Secoback.

The seniors are giving a bronze plaque for the door to Dr. Simpson's office, and are leaving to the college itself 500.00 for the new chapel. The seniors also wish to express their thanks to "Pop" Faulkner, their sponsor, to whom they are giving money for some fishing equipment!

Dr. Combs To Retire

Dr. Josiah Henry Combs, an outstanding professor of French at MWC, has been on the faculty here for nine years. In this time he has become an important part of the college and a friend to his many language students.

He was born in the East Kentucky Mountains, where educational opportunities were limited. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English at Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky. Before he also worked on a

Dr. Parkinson To Retire

With the retirement of Dr. Burney Lynch Parkinson this year, Mary Washington College loses one of its most distinguished and active faculty members. Although they have only been on our campus for four years, Dr. and Mrs. Parkinson have contributed their time and themselves to the activities on "the Hill". As former President of Mississippi State College for Women, and as present professor of Education and Psychology, Dr. Parkinson has shown a remarkable record in the field of education.

Dr. and Mrs. Parkinson leave Fredericksburg this June for Albemarle, North Carolina, where they plan to spend much of their time in the future. There, from their home on Main Street, they hope to relax, garden, and probably continue their interest in community affairs. Dr. Parkinson was Superintendent of Schools at one time in Albemarle, Mrs. Parkinson's home town.

Mary Washington will greatly miss Dr. Parkinson's participation in campus activities. He has been a member of Joint Council four years; Chairman for the last three years. He has been a sponsor of Inter-Club Association for four years, the Bulletin one year, the Battlefield one year, Chairman of the Dedication Committee of the Fine Arts Buildings, and Chairman of the Inauguration Program Committee for President Simpson's Inaugural.

Dr. Parkinson received his Bachelor of Science degree from Erskine College, South Carolina, in 1909, and then went to Lauréns, South Carolina as a teacher of English and principal of the high school. Two years later he went to Albemarle, as Superintendent of Schools, where he met Mrs. Parkinson, and then back to Lauréns as superintendent of city schools, for four years. During World War I he was Associate Manager of the Southern Division of the Red Cross.

In 1920 he received his Master of Arts degree from George Peabody College, and returned there later to take his Doctor of Philosophy degree. Between the years 1920 and 1923 he was State High School Supervisor for South Carolina, and in 1923 he became Professor of School Administration and Director of Extension for the University of South Carolina. In 1927 he accepted the presidency of the Presbyterian College of South Carolina. He was Director of Teacher Training, Certification and Elementary Education in Alabama from 1928 until 1932, and taught at the University of Alabama in the summer sessions of 1929, 30, and 31. In 1932 he accepted the Presidency of Mississippi State College for Women in which capacity he served for 20 years or until he reached the age for retirement in Mississippi in 1952.

Erskine College conferred on him an honorary Litt. D. in 1939. He has done additional study at Harvard University and Columbia University. Professor Parkinson is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, Newcomen Society of England, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Pi Kappa Delta. As a Kiwanis Club member, he served as president of the Montgomery, Alabama, and Columbus, Mississippi, clubs.

Dr. Parkinson is a life member of the National Education Association, and was for 30 years a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and is an ex-president of the Southern Association of Colleges for Women, the Mississippi Association of Colleges, and the South Carolina Educational Association. He is included in Who's Who in America, International Who's Who, Leader's in Education, Who's Who in American Education, Phi Beta Kappa Directory and other biographical directories.

He is also the author of numerous surveys, magazine articles, and educational writings. He has published "High School Manual for South Carolina," "History of Columbia, South Carolina Schools," "Professional Preparation

We Pause Here . . .

Since this is the last issue of the BULLET for this year and since graduation is just two short weeks away, it seems that some time should be taken to say a few final words to those who will be leaving. This time of year is usually met with mixed emotions; many are very happy that it's all over; a great many others are possessed with a certain nostalgic feeling of regret. Which ever emotion may be the most prevalent here it cannot be denied that graduation means a great deal to every senior, and for that matter, to the whole student body.

This is the time of year when we pause—then seniors say their good-byes, and underclassmen make plans for the coming year. Then too, perhaps the seniors stop to look back on their four years at M.W.C. and try to decide exactly what their college days have meant to them. All of us recognize that the four years we spend in college are years of growth. They are the years in which we formulate certain definite ideas and opinions and although the outer surface and certain phases of these opinions may change, the basic, underlying principles remain the same.

There are few people who can spend a period of time at a school and not change to some degree. Just take yourself for instance, and think how you were the first day you arrived here. Compare that person with the one you are now. Most of us can see a wide difference. College is certainly not the "cure-all" for all of our little personality quirks and petty habits, but certainly it gives to most of us a better perspective of ourselves, and helps us to see ourselves more in the light that others see us, and this undoubtedly is the first and most permanent step toward understanding and improving ourselves.

The graduating class can honestly say that MARY WASHINGTON has given them a good and promising start in life. Most of them realize, too, that it is up to them to make the most of this beginning. Now, at last the time has come for the rest of the student body to say, "good-bye, good luck. We'll miss you," to the class of '56.

B. L. S.

We Congratulate Them . . .

It is a real pleasure for the BULLET to extend congratulations to the fourteen girls who were honored by the CAP and GOWN SOCIETY of MARY WASHINGTON College. They have shown in their three years here that they are well-deserving of such an honor. They have worked hard for the good of the school and have kept before them at all times the ideal of service to others. From the beginning of their years at M.W.C. they lost any inclination of self-centeredness and have given freely and cheerfully of themselves, their time, and their energy. Now, they have gained appreciation for their service and loyalty, and the outgoing members of CAP and GOWN have shown them their faith in their ability to uphold the standards of the society, and to make its purposes and goals realities.

B. L. S.

"Thoughts"

What is it? What makes that strange feeling come into your heart when you tell some one goodbye? Perhaps for the last time. How do you explain the tears that rise in your eyes when someone you love slowly vanishes into the midst of the future? How do you let your over-flowing heart empty the lonesome feeling you know is sure to come? What is love? Why does it linger when the object of its affection is gone? Life holds so much, yet what it lacks makes life dead. Only by partings are we drawn closer together.

Only by hate do we know the greatness of love. Only by noise do we know the peacefulness of silence. Only by enemies do we know the dearness of friends. And only by the sorrows of sin do we know the joys of forgiveness.

Why is it? Why is the last observance of something always the sweetest? Why is the last flower always the loveliest? Why is the last friend always the nearest? The last kiss always the most treasured, and the last look always the most filling? Why do you remember your unachieved desires and forget your accomplishments? Why is life so long yet so short?

These Things I Will Remember

The new faces, new rooms, new professors of September...The freshman reception...everyone looking strained and not knowing what to do next...the first formal convo for seniors...the first package from home...the first things and the new things of first semester...Halloween party in the dorm...counting the days to Thanksgiving...Openings and football weekends...mid-semester...First vacation.

Three hectic weeks...Christmas parties early and late...what to get roommate?...sudden deluge of term papers and tests...chimes from G. W. ringing Christmas carols across campus...starting work on the Benefit...Dorm Christmas party...Door decorations...suddenly Christmas.

Post-Christmas slump...sophomore party...What did you get for Christmas?...Hoped for snow that never materialized...shopping in Richmond...then exam fever...late lights in dormitories...strict study hour broken by sudden and quick coke party...bridge till after exams...Reading day...Books! Books! Books!...And I have an exam on Thursday afternoon!...New York trip...Then back again.

Benefit is main topic of conversation...together with Bridey Murphy...Mom comes through with another package of cookies...we eat again!...first sunbathers appear behind duPont...reappear in Infirmary two days later...discussion of summer wardrobes...Easter comes into focus...Emerald Ball...summer plans considered...Bermuda holiday for lucky ones...the rest go home for a welcome relief after two months of work...return to Spring.

Why do you long for the thing you cannot have, and let what you do have slip through your fingers? Is it because human nature can never be satisfied? Is that why we have developed from a being which was almost an animal into the intelligent being we are today? Or is it the secret of the downfall of the human race? Will we never be satisfied until we have torn down the play house we have worked so hard to build? Must we measure our lives on a dial and numbers on a calendar? Why do we emphasize the unimportant and neglect the important? Why are we born to live so foolishly and to die so wisely? Only God knows.

Who is it? Who are you? Are you one who lives with love instead of hate? With hope instead of fear? With care instead of neglect? With forgiveness instead of unforgiveness? If you do, only God can know you.

L'Universite de Paris degrees summa cum laude.

He then returned to the United States and became professor of French and German at the University of Oklahoma. For twenty years he served as head of the department of foreign languages at Texas Christian University, and from there he came to MWC.

During his teaching career, Dr. Combs has written several books and articles. Among these are The Kentucky Highlanders, A Syllabus of Kentucky Folk-Songs, "All That's Kentucky, An Anthology," his doctoral dissertation: Folk-Songs du Midi des Etats-Unis, The New French Poetry, Two Tales from Flaubert, and The Truth from Texas. He has written twelve or fifteen books, half of which have been published. He is now in the process of writing new books.

Dr. Combs has a wide variety of interests. He has made many studies of United States dialects, folk songs, and folklore. The study of onomastics, the meaning of family names, has been a favorite hobby of his and led him to find that his own name is thousands of years old and means "a little valley between two mountains." He gets letters from all over the country from people wanting to know the meaning of family names. He has been feature writer for newspapers in America and Europe.

Dr. Combs is on the executive committee of the American Dialect Society, a member of the Dialect Dictionary Committee, a member of the Modern Language Society and various other literary societies. He has traveled throughout the North American hemisphere and he has traveled and resided in England, Czechoslovakia, and France, where he met and married Mrs. Combs.

Dr. Combs plans to continue his research and writing after retiring from the teaching profession.

Others to be Absent Come September

There will be several new faces on campus next September when classes are resumed. Two professors are retiring this year; Dr. Josiah Combs and Dr. Burney L. Parkinson, and five other instructors are leaving. Mr. William King, Dr. Dorothea Deuer, Mrs. Clyde Carter, Mr. James Hatfield, and Mr. Russell Walther will not return next year.

Mr. William F. Leidecker has been granted a year's leave of absence. Two familiar faces at George Washington Hall will also be leaving. Wallace Alsop, the custodian at G.W. is retiring, as is Mrs. Leon Ferneyhough, assistant Bursar. Mrs. Cordie E. Miller, hostess, is leaving also.

New professors will be hired in several departments, however all appointments have not yet been made.

tion and Certification of Public School Teachers in South Carolina", and "The Supervision of Instruction in Elementary Schools of Alabama". He was also editor of "South Carolina Education", an educational journal.

Mrs. Parkinson's career in Fredericksburg and during her life has been as distinguished as her husband's. She has an A. B. in English, a B. S. in Home Economics, a B. S. in Library Science, an M. A. in Education and a Ph. D. in Psychology. She is a well-known parliamentarian, and she is Who's Who in American Women listed in the 1946-47 edition of in 1939-40, and Principal Women of America, 1930-31.

During the last four years that she has spent here Mrs. Parkinson has served as President of the Faculty Women's Club, President of the Women of the Church at the Presbyterian Church, Vice-Regent and Chairman of National Defense, Washington-Lewis Chapter of the D. A. R. and parliamentarian law and Chairman International Relations Women's Club of Fredericksburg.

As a citizen, she was in 1955 the recipient of the D. A. R. AWARD OF MERIT "for outstanding services and worthy accomplishments for the protection of our Constitutional Republic". She was parliamentarian in 1954 for the D. A. R. 83rd Continental Congress in Washington, D. C. For the past four years she has lectured to the parliamentary law class of Richmond and has spoken to clubs, church groups, Professional Women, political groups, and college students in Virginia on many subjects.

She is a member of the A.A.U.W., the American Legion Auxiliary, Mortar Board, Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Kappa Gamma, Alpha Delta Pi, Colonial Dames of America, D. A. R., Alpha Beta Alpha, Mary Washington Monument Association, Kenmore Association. She is well known all over the South through her speeches.

Mary Washington will miss the Parkinsons, but we wish them success and good luck throughout the future years.

The students appreciate the following statement made by Dr. Parkinson: "Mrs. Parkinson and I have greatly enjoyed our association with the young women of Mary Washington College. Socially they have been friendly and gracious. Intellectually they have been stimulating and inspiring. We regret that retirement will deprive us of the privilege of knowing them in the years to come. Our affectionate good wishes, will follow them always."

Summer Employment

In an effort to assist students who are interested in summer employment, the library has purchased and processed the 1956 edition of the Summer Employment Directory, published by the National Directory Service in Cincinnati. This directory is arranged by states and lists such summer employments as resort hotels, ranches, summer camps, restaurants, state parks, transportation companies, and various others. It gives the person to whom one should write in order to apply. The directory may be obtained from Mrs. Carter at the reference library desk.

The library has also just ordered two publications of the Big Brother Move, a book with summer job information sources and a guide for summer jobs for students and counselors. It is hoped that these guides will provide much valuable aid in finding summer jobs.

Alumnae Daughters

The Alumnae Daughters announce new officers for the next school year. They are: President, Mary Montague Hudson, Vice-Pres., Marjorie Connock, Sec., Mary Massey, Treas., Martha Moore, and Historian, Lois Lambert.

An Appeal For Textbooks For Korean Colleges

The Oriental Club and World Affairs Club at MWC are making an appeal to students and faculty to contribute college textbooks for Korean college classrooms and libraries.

Ninety per cent of all facilities and equipment, including libraries, were completely destroyed during the Korean War. Many classes must still be held in the damaged shells of buildings or in the open air; lectures are often the sole method of instruction because of the lack of text and reference books; there is only one pencil for every 60 Korean students. Nevertheless more than 50 universities, colleges, and normal schools are in operation.

Only books which are in use in American college classrooms and libraries should be donated. The fields of General Science, History, Political Science, Economics, English and American literature, foreign language texts, Art and Music are also needed. Dictionaries and encyclopedias are especially welcome. Light fiction etc. should not be included but literary classics are gratefully accepted.

There will be a box to handle contributions in every dormitory. If there is not one in your dorm, please take your books to Deane Ford, 107 Custis, or Ann Lynnwood Jones, 218 Westmoreland.

A textbook drive for Korea—books sent directly from American to Korean students—is a warm, concrete, simple contribution to friendship and understanding between the young people of both countries.

Recitals Given

Lydia Motley, soprano, gave her senior recital in duPont Theatre May 20, assisted by Karen Hansen, pianist. The accompanist was Joan Ivanoff.

M. W. C. Invades The Sky!

When you hear and see a plane circling the school, be sure to wave for it may be one of your classmates at M.W.C. Several M.W.C. students have really gotten "up in the air" and are hoping to have some more of you flying high with them by next fall.

The enthusiasm of the group shines as brightly on cloudy days as on clear, for even in bad weather, there is much to be learned and activities in which to participate. Bad weather flying, thus it may be called, is accomplished by our imagination and work as a club. These past few weeks the girls have been meeting to plan for the organization of an aviation club which will be in full swing by next fall.

Its activities will consist of many and varied phases of aviation, such as ground school, trips to airports, films, and discussions headed by qualified personnel in aviation. The opportunities in this field are ever increasing for women, and through the club, a general outlined knowledge will be obtained, being advantageous in modernizing yourself and as a basis for a career.

Keep your eyes and ears open for the station wagon from the airport and come join us. It is a good chance to meet the instructors and have an afternoon of fun. See you there! The FH-Hi Girls.

Convention to be Held

The American College public Relations Association will hold its national convention at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, next July. The director of public relations at MWC is chairman of one of the committees arranging for the convention.

Cap and Gown

Cap and Gown has elected Susan Bender president, Sandra Ball, vice president, Marlene Bost, secretary, and Nancy Ward, treasurer.

Oriental Club Takes Annual Trip To Washington

The Oriental Club spent Monday, April 14, in Washington on their annual trip. The club and their guests visited the Embassy of India where they were received by Dr. Sundaram, head of the Embassy. The students had morning coffee around a large table while Dr. Sundaram talked to them about Ghandi, his philosophy and influence and later answered questions regarding the religious thought of India.

After leaving, the club took a tour of the Islamic Center where the Director, Dr. Bisar, gave them a talk about the building of the mosque and the religion of the Muslims. Here the students ate lunch and had refreshments served by the Center.

Two hours were spent at the museum and beautiful gardens of Dumbarton Oaks in Georgetown. The assistant curator, Mrs. Bland, talked on the various collections of the museum.

Mr. U. Than Hia, Cultural Attache to the Embassy of Burma, received the club in the late afternoon. He talked generally about Burma and its people. The talk was followed by a tour of the Embassy and refreshments were served to the students. Old friendships were renewed, as Mr. Hia and his family visited the campus last spring when his daughter danced for an assembly program.

The last stop on the tour was for a Chinese dinner at Rudy Foo's Restaurant. A variety of dishes were shared among the students so they could sample many Chinese dishes. Many of them experimented quite successfully with chopsticks and brought them home as souvenirs.

The trip was quite a successful one and something that the club looks forward to every year. The members were accompanied by their sponsor, Dr. McIntosh, and Mrs. Krusinski.

By Ibbey Doenges

An era at Oak Hill Stables will end with the closing of this semester; Mr. Walther, long-time head of the riding department, has resigned.

Mr. Walther, who was born in Baltimore and reared in Virginia, fell in love with horses permanently at a very early age. He rode as a jockey and steeplechase jockey and worked with the Deep Run Hunt Club in Richmond among many other things, before coming to head the riding department here at Mary Washington sixteen years ago.

During his years here, Mr. Walther built up the Hoof Prints Club and other aspects of the riding. His efforts have put our school on the map with the reputation of having one of the finest riding departments in the country. The organization of Hoof Prints' pack of beagles three years ago made Mary Washington known as the only girls school to keep and hunt its own pack of beagles.

Mr. Walther's service to the school, above and beyond the teaching of riding, has been great. He is a member of the Mary Washington chapter of Alpha Psi Omega and has delighted many audiences. In recent years he has appeared in "Angel Street", "The Glass Menagerie" and his own favorite, "The Taming of the Shrew". He started, and for several years sponsored, "Pot of Gold" talent show. He has gained a reputation as an auctioneer for the Chi Beta Phi auction.

Needless to say, Mr. Walther has been a very wonderful sponsor for Hoof Prints Club. During the war, all clubs on the hill were asked to contribute something to the war effort. He says that he felt that he couldn't ask his riders to take up knitting and, after much thought he produced his special brain-child...the Mary Washington College Cavalry. Cavalry served the school and the community as a first aid and auxiliary police unit during the war, and has continued to serve, though the days of emergency have long since past.

Mr. Walther plans an active and interesting future out West, probably in Colorado. He has conducted NSGWS riding rating centers there for several years, serving in the capacity of a national judge.

On behalf of Hoof Prints, Cavalry, the riders, and others who know Mr. Walther, I want to express a special word of admiration and gratitude for endless work will done.

Rail-O-Gram To Feature Story On M. W. C. Shortly

RAIL-O-GRAM, published by the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, will feature a 1200-word story on MWC in an issue coming out shortly. On the cover of the railroad magazine there will be a picture of E. Lee Trinkle Library.

Miss Ann Taylor, reporter, and Lou Abbott, photographer, from the Richmond News Leader were on campus May 8. Material was gathered for feature stories which will deal with the language laboratory, home ec. students at the Day Nursery, Chancellor and Mrs. Simpson at "Brompton", the Preston twins, and Bunny Van Inwegen and the Aviation Club.

Devil - Goat Day

The many festivities of Devil-Goat Day including competition in softball, swimming, a tug-of-war, and a pep rally were terminated at 7:45 p. m. Thursday, May 17, 1956. The biggest race of the day, however, was against the weather, but the Devils and the Goats were both victorious although plans were shifted as to the location of activities, and revisions were made which omitted one or two scheduled events.

After nine innings of softball on Ball Circle between the Devil and Goat teams composed of both faculty members and students, the Goats came ahead to victory with a score of eleven runs against seven scored by the Devils. Among the spectacular plays of the game were Mr. Pinshmidt's homer for the Goats and one by Bobby Kantro for the Devils. Several times it looked as if a stop-light would be necessary as Pete Dallas and "P. J." Pillsbury both had close calls at home plate and first base respectively. After the final out in the ninth inning, the Goats raised their banner and cheered their team.

During the last quarter of the softball game, Devil-Goat swimming competition was taking place in the indoor pool. While the Goats were winning the softball game, the Devils were out-swimming them in various swimming races scoring a Devil victory.

Soon after the softball and swimming events came a Devil-Goat tug-of-war, the progress of which was temporarily halted when the rope broke in two leaving most of each team in a sitting position in Ball Circle. A large knot was tied, and the race was on again. This time the Goats were victorious as they pulled the Devils far beyond the white dividing line.

After the tug-of-war, everyone raced to the Student-Faculty Picnic, which, because of climatic conditions, had been moved from the hockey field to Seacobeck Dining Hall. Following the picnic, the faculty presented a skit concerning the "Happy" Birthday Party of a "little" boy—namely, Dr. Whidden. Among his "guests" were Miss Herman, Dr. Cabrera, Dr. Allen, and Dr. Quenzel who left the party quite unexpectedly after breaking the balloons and fighting with their host. At the conclusion of the skit, Devils and Goats headed to Monroe Auditorium for a Pep Rally. The Pep Rally was divided into three parts: cheering, races, and talent show. The Devils won the cheering, the four races—potato relay, three-legged race, blind-man relay, and sack relay, and they took second and third places in the talent show. The Goats, however, came through on top with first and fourth place in the talent show.

The familiar strains of "I'd rather be a Devil than a Goat—" could be heard as the announcement was made of a victorious year for the Devils. The scores for the year-round events are as follows:

Devils	Goats
Hockey	1
1 Volleyball	1
1 Basketball	1
1 Bowling	1
1 Softball	1
1 Swimming	1
2 Tug-of-War	1
2 Pep Rally	—
5 TOTALS	4

In closing out the year, Emly Villanueva, vice-president of R. A., sincerely and gratefully thanked the ICA, SGA, the RA, and especially Miss Leonard for their help, assistance, and co-operation in R. A.'s season '55-'56. And congratulations all Devils on a victory which they earned and deserved through their ability and spirit.

Tripping Through

By Bonnie Walters

I am one of those particularly spineless fish, a liberal arts major. In fact, if someone had said to me, "What are big muscle movements?" I probably would have yelped and started running. If a ball came towards me, I duck. Swimming presents no problems for me; I just creep into a comfortable inner tube and drift. As for tennis, I am the best ball chaser in business.

Because of my natural hand-and-eye co-ordination, I have usually avoided Physical Education in any way not condemned by the Honor Code. Therefore, it was quite a shock to learn that I lacked all my courses in this subject. Resolving to be an adult about the matter, I rushed to Monroe Gym to discover, if possible, an "easy out." Finally, one course seemed to demand attention. Camp Leadership? Well, that was it!

Surprisingly enough, the class proved to be very easy. Then we had our second class. Time passed and, suddenly, I realized that our practical examination, that of having a weekend camping trip, would soon be upon us. This should be a snap; as an old Girl Scout from way back, well, let me tell you . . .

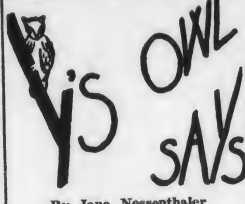

Well, we (that is, the class and two supervisors) started out in a gay mood which lasted until our arrival at the camp site, some ninety-five miles down the Rappahannock. The group quickly divided itself into its various committees and went about preparing the camp site. As I prepared to select my own special one, a pleasant voice suggested that it would be nice if I gave a "hand with the lean-to." I regarded those two lily-white extremities for the space of an instant and approached the lean-to. This is a canvas and wood structure held together by square knots; needless to say, a great deal of importance is given to the tying of said knots. Being an old Scout, I was able to accomplish the first knot. However, I then attempted lashing. Now, it is a well-known fact that binder's twine is ridiculously simple to use; even a child can lash two poles together. Speaking as a female Peter Pan, I think binding isn't so simple. Really, lashing isn't quite difficult. You see, you have to pull here and tug there and pull and tug and, of, I'm so sorry; did that lean-to fall on your head? However, my companions cheerily encouraged me, and the job was soon done. If I do say so, the girls did a fine job. Bed-time came.

I really slept quite well—yes, quite well. How many of you have seen the sun at 4:30 A.M.? Well, neither had I, neither had I. You know, it's really lovely to be "up with the birds" particularly when all the birds are up. Due to this "feathered convention," the campers rose and were down on the beach at a very early hour. Following a brisk breakfast the group engaged in a canoeing lesson. The different variety of strokes made a gay display through the water and air—depending upon how one paddled. I was most fortunate in having the services of an excellent stern guide, who very kindly told me that I would have to paddle stronger. As we approached the open sea, I perceived the wisdom of her words, thereby avoiding the delightful opportunity of canoeing to Bermuda.

While some of the more ambitious girls took a walk around the area, the lazy crowd spent the rest of the morning in the acquiring of a "good tan," which ran from lobster red in some to watermelon pink for others. It was noted that, as these colors deepened, one's interest and ability in moving from one spot to another decreased. However, the group did move a bit during the afternoon. Accompanied by cries of "Keep the Needle on North," the group set out to map the area. Many lovely drawings were done in this way. Supper proved to be a quiet meal during the course of which the girls worked eagerly at their maps.

The Saturday evening program consisted of songs, games, and star-gazing. The astronomers of the evening were greatly pleased at the results, for it was their first venture into the field, and many constellations, hitherto un-

By Jane Nessenenthaler

The officers of the Y. W. C. A. for the summer session will be president, Jane Nessenenthaler, treasurer, Babs Romoser, and vesper chairman, Betty Ann Knight. The officers were elected by the cabinet members in a regular meeting.

The date for the fall retreat of the "Y" cabinet was announced by Sandy Ball. Members will return to school on September 15, and meet in Ball parlor at 2:30 p. m. The school year is quickly growing to a close, and the summer months are before us. Many students have not yet made plans for the summer vacation. Other students have made definite arrangements to travel, work, or perhaps just to rest and enjoy not having to prepare lessons. The summer months are crowded with exciting things to do. Have you decided how you are going to employ yourself this summer?

The decision is yours, but make your vacation a profitable one. Let this summer be a time of Christian witnessing. It is "Y's" hope that you have grown not only your knowledge with others, but the love of Christ. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

Farewell from "Y" until next September, and have a very pleasant vacation.

known, were discovered. Sunday came all too soon, and the group prepared to decamp. The laboriously lashed lean-to came down in minutes; indeed, the speed of its destruction caused one to wonder as to the true strength of one's square knots. One problem remained: the bed roll. During the course of the weekend the bed roll had become somewhat disarranged; it had also collected little bits of Nature which, although dear, had to be discarded as there are no facilities for mosquito care at M.W.C. Resolutely wrenching myself away I determinedly rolled up my bed roll. The old scout was very tired. We climbed into cars and drove away. Suddenly it was very good to just sit, scratching. It had been some weekend. Yes, indeed, my dear campers, speaking as an old Scout, it was some weekend.

Canterbury News

Miss Carole Macklin, now completing her training in church work, will in July become full time college worker at MWC.

Miss Macklin who will graduate from training school in June with an M. A. in Bible, is at the present time on the staff of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Richmond. She did her summer field work at St. Paul's Church, Hanover.

In Fredericksburg she will work under the direction of the Rev. H. J. Rains, rector of Trinity Church and chaplain to Episcopal students at the college. Her special work will be with the Canterbury Club and other activities among Episcopal students. She will hold the full time position here.

The appointment was made as plans were continued for a new Episcopal student center, to be constructed in conjunction with a new Trinity Church.

She was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Macklin, now of Arlington, Texas. She holds a B. A. with distinction in Spanish from southwestern College, Memphis, Tenn. A Danforth Graduate Award sent her to the University of Connecticut for graduate work.

Overheard In The Dining Hall

It seems that one of the head residents had a grand niece visiting her and the little girl was taken to the dining hall to eat. She was a very proper young lady and when she noticed some MWC girls making an unusual amount of noise at a near-by table and even spilling a tray, she remarked to her aunt, "They haven't learned yet, have they?"

A diner in a restaurant rushed over to the manager.

"I've been robbed," he screamed. "I turned my head and someone stole my topcoat."

"What kind of a topcoat did you have?" asked the manager.

"It was a brown coat with raglan sleeves," replied the man.

"Hmmm," mused the manager. "come to think of it, I saw a man walking out of here with that very coat on."

"Quick," demanded the customer. "What did the guy look like?"

The manager shook his head. "Terrible," he sighed, "the sleeves were too short for him."
